THE POLITICAL SCIENCE REVIEWER

Volume XXVIII 1999

Notes on Contributors iii

John Stanley (1938-1998): In Gratitude 1

Martin Diamond's Contribution to American Political Thought —A Symposium—

Richard G. Stevens
Martin Diamond's Contribution to American Political Thought: Editor's Preface 3

Walter Berns
Martin Diamond's Contribution to American Political Thought: A Symposium 18

Edmund D. Carlson
Martin Diamond as a Classroom Teacher: A Personal Reminiscence 21

Morton J. Frisch
Martin Diamond and Douglass Adair on The Federalist 27

Thomas K. Lindsay
Democracy, Acquisitiveness, and the Private Realm: Martin Diamond on the Reasonable Optimism of the Founding 48

David Nichols
Conservatives, Liberals, and the Constitution: Martin Diamond's Political Science 75

John Koritansky
Response to Morton J. Frisch and to Martin Diamond 98

Alan Gibson
America's Better Self: Martin Diamond, James Madison, and the Foundations of the American Regime 102

Reviews

Henry T. Edmondson, III
John Dewey Revisited in an Age of Educational Decline 121

Marc D. Guerra
Living the Theologico-Political Problem:
On Ernest Fortin's Essays 219

Timothy Burns
Virtuous Liberalism 272